SUGGESTS NEW CONCEPTION OF CHRISTIANITY FOR CONVERTS

Churchmen's Union Chief Has Plan For Orient

MUST ORGANISE

Readymade Religion Will Not Do In East, He Says

(Reuter's Special Service)

London, August 22.—In both China and India there is now a strong feeling that converts to Christian religion must organise themselves and formulate their own version of Christianity, declared Professor Percy Gardner, President of the Churchmen's Union, at the opening of the Conference of Modern Churchmen at Oxford.

He went on to say that the notion of merely importing to India and China readymade church systems was giving way to a feeling that each nation had something to add and so adaption was necessary. The Nestorian and Jesuit missions were crushed out by national reaction. Protection by Europeans was necessary until local churches were strong but not after.

AMERICA BUYS 2,000,000 TONS OF COAL ABROAD

Train Wreckers Pull Spikes; Engineer Is Killed

(Reuter's Service)

London, Aug. 21.—Up to the present American and Canadian coal orders to South Wales total 2,000,000 tons. Available supplies have been taken up for the month. Inquiries are now being made for other sorts. Best Admiralty coal is quoted at 31 shillings per ton.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—As a result of some unknown persons removing the spikes from the rails an empty passenger train from New York to Chicago travelling at 50 miles an hour overturned, killing the driver and a fireman. The authorities are offering $1,000 reward for the discovery of the miscreants.

Washington, Aug. 21.—A Bill has been introduced in the House of Representatives to carry out President Harding's suggestions for a sweeping investigation into the coal industry. A committee composed of nine persons with a salary of $10,000 each will report in January.

Cleveland, Ohio, August 21.—Mr. Stone, President of the Engineers' Union, and Mr. Robertson, President of the Firemen's Union, assert that there is no danger of the four transportation brotherhoods being drawn into the strike should the negotiations to end the shopmen's strike fail.

PEKING CABINET ON STRIKE OVER SALARY ARREARS

Dr. Koo Likely To Be Named As Acting Premier

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 22.—Mr. Kao Eng-hung returned to Peking this morning. He immediately visited Dr. Wang Chung-hui, who is undergoing eye treatment in the Peking Union Medical College Hospital.

It is semi-officially stated that Dr. Wang Chung-hui will no longer attend to the affairs of the Premiership and it is predicted that Dr. Wellington Koo will be appointed Acting Premier. Meanwhile the Cabinet and staff are on strike owing to the nonpayment of salaries.

DOG DAYS STUFF

By Westa

"WHY" ASKED an irate fan after yesterday's game, "don't you bawl out those umpires?"

Well, that is what you might call easier said than done. It is one thing for the fan, sitting in the grandstand behind the ump's back, and protected by a buffer state of anonymity (in the form of fellow fans and fanettes) to bellow disapproval of the arbiters. But it is quite another matter when you have to do it right out in the open, under your own signature.

Some days ago there was a guy out there umpiring and he happened to have a bad day. Ordinarily he may or may not be a good umpire: I haven't seen enough of his work to know whether he is or not. But this day either he was off, practically all the customers were, for they "rode" him unmercifully.

After the game was over did this bird cut all those who had panned him off his visiting list?

He did not.

But in the paper the next day I wrote of his umpiring in what I thought was but a mildly disapproving vein, and as a result our relations at the present writing are exactly the relations that existed between David B. Hill, the old New York political boss, and former president Grover Cleveland after they had got into some sort of a row over patronage, and which were described by Hill himself as follows:

We don't speak as we pass by,
Me to him, or him to I.
And there you are!

As to the umpiring yesterday and the day before, it certainly was terrible. When a Meejee was up there batting any ball thrown by the opposing pitcher in the general direction of Bubbling Well road was a strike, and as for Dinny—well, now, Dinny, as old friends and neighbors, and after the nice things I said about your work the day before, was it playing marbles on your part yesterday to call Storaalsi safe at first on that attempted double play in the second when to absolutely everybody in the park except the professional Japanese baiters he was out by two strides?

In view of these facts, if you want the umpires bawled out you will have to do it yourself. I'm through, finished! Hereafter when I feel like bawling out the umps I shall sit in the stands, where I can be heard but not seen. But as for bawling them out under my own signature—nothing didding!

OH, Mr. Westa: Your rhapsody on Uneeda's Japonaise great catch was well merited, but please reserve your superlative of the best catch ever seen in Shanghai for Captain Jordan, catcher of the Ninth Cavalry. Ask any ol' timer who saw Jordan's catch and that of Uneeda yesterday, and he will tell you that the palm should be awarded to the coon skipper, who brought off his spear three or four years ago, with his back dug deep into the wire screen.

Incidentally, while on the same subject, Eysinger, of the old Brooklyns, made a catch greater than either of these some years ago. In chasing a foul he bumped into the grandstand, and bounced back, landing on his head and shoulder with his feet in the air, and spearing the descending ball with his bare hand while in that position. That was a catch that was a catch. Uneeda's was wonderful, Eysinger's more wonderful, but Jordan's the best ever seen in this model Settlement—which kindly note.

Your crispy critiques are usually so accurate that I venture to correct you on this occasion, with great diffidence.

"Blue Chalk"

NO, "Blue Chalk," you and I are both wrong. Uneeda's catch was not the greatest ever made at the Shanghai park, nor was Jordan's. The greatest catch ever made at the park here was pulled off by one of the baseball club's coolies one day last spring during that protracted wet spell that we had, if you recall.

It seems that one day between showers, when there were still numerous puddles in the park, the coolies went out near the Parsee club, where the ground is higher, for a little practice in preparation for their annual baseball game with the cricket club. One of them—the big one that stands

TAIYO MARU AND EMPRESS LINER DUE TO ARRIVE

First Of Three Mail Steamers, President Lincoln, Sailing From Here Saturday

Following the arrival yesterday of the steamer President Madison of the Admiral Line another incoming mail liner is the Taiyo Maru of the T. K. K. which is due off Woosung from San Francisco by way of Honolulu and Japanese ports tomorrow morning.

The incoming tender from the Taiyo Maru is expected at the Customs Jetty about 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. The steamer is to sail late tomorrow for Manila and Hongkong and the outbound tender is to leave the jetty at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

The President Madison which docked at the China Merchants Lower wharf also is to sail for Manila and Hongkong tomorrow at 11 o'clock in the morning.

The last mail boat from America that will arrive in August is the Empress of Asia of the Canadian Pacific steamships which is due off Woosung from Vancouver, B. C. at midnight next Friday and will sail for Manila and Hongkong at noon on Saturday. The tender Alexandra with incoming passengers from the Empress of Asia is expected to arrive at the Customs Jetty about 9 o'clock Saturday morning and the tender with outbound passengers for the ship will leave the jetty at 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

The first of the three trans-Pacific liners to sail for America shortly will be the President Lincoln which is due to sail from this port for San Francisco by way of Kobe, Yokohama and Honolulu on Saturday. The vessel is scheduled to arrive in San Francisco on September 14.

The President Jefferson of Admiral Line will sail from Shanghai for Seattle next Sunday and is due there by way of Kobe and Yokohama on September 12.

The Empress of Australia will sail from Woosung on its maiden homebound voyage next Monday, instead of Saturday as was previously scheduled, and is due in Vancouver on September 13.

Police Head At Peking Resigns

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 22.—General Wang Huai-ching, Commandant of the Police and Gendarmerie, yesterday submitted his resignation which the President returned. Upon learning that General Wang's resignation had been tendered, the Peking Chamber of Commerce sent a delegation to the Cabinet asking that the resignation be declined. The reason for the resignation is apparently the number of demonstrations with which the police did not interfere and which General Wang feared might cast reflection on the efficiency of his forces.

Local Cotton Magnate Will Represent China At First Pacific Commercial Confab

Mr. H. Y. Moh Selected As China's Envoy To Conference To Be Held In Honolulu From October 25 To 31

Mr. H. Y. Moh, the cotton magnate, will represent China at the first Pan-Pacific Commercial Conference to be held in Honolulu, beginning October 25. No definite date has yet been fixed by Mr. Moh for his departure for the Hawaiian islands, but he will probably leave here by the steamer Nanking of the China Mail, which is scheduled to sail from here about the 8th of October and due in Honolulu about October 23.

Mr. Moh is managing director of three big cotton mills in China, two of which are located in Shanghai, Hou Seng and Teh Dah. The third which was established by him two years ago in Chengchow, Honan, is known as Yue Foong. He was educated in the United States, receiving degrees from the Universities of Wisconsin, Illinois and Texas, specialising in cotton planting and manufacturing.

Since his return in 1914, Mr. Moh has been identified with several movements for cotton improvement, being the organiser of several experimental stations in various parts of the country and the author of a book entitled "Simple Remarks on Cotton Improvement." He also translated Dr. F. W. Taylor's, "The Principles of Scientific Management" in 1915 and Mrs. W. A. Graham Clark's "Cotton Goods in Japan" in the following year.

Mr. Moh is 46 years old. Besides his many duties in the three cotton mills, he is identified with many public service organisations. He is one of the five advisors to the Shanghai Municipal Council, director of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce, the Kiangsu Educational Association, the China Vocational Educational Association and several other cotton mills, chairman of the Cotton Improvement Committee of the Cotton Mill Owners' Association and president of the American Returned Students' Club.

Mr. Moh will proceed to Peking shortly to confer with Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, Minister of Foreign Affairs, before leaving for Hawaii. He will be accompanied by a number of secretaries.

The agenda of the conference which will be interspersed with various forms of entertainments, is as follows:

Opening Day—Wednesday October 25.

General Topic—Significant Pan Pacific Commercial Problems of My Country. (One speaker from each country to give a brief paper.)

Second Day—Thursday October 26.

General Topic—Communication and Transportation.

1. Survey of existing cable and wireless facilities, with suggestions for meeting present deficiencies.

2. Establishment of lower special rates, fixing responsibility and granting general improved facilities for the press.

3. An analysis of present trade routes and the development of possible new routes.

4. Desirability of free zones or free ports in Pacific lands.

Third Day—Friday October 27.

General Topic—Development and conservation of natural resources.

1. Methods to be employed in saving the Pan-Pacific fisheries.

2. Development of Pan-Pacific fuel resources in order to provide for future expansion of Pacific industry and transportation.

3. Steps to be taken toward prevention of crises in the world rice and sugar situation.

Fourth Day—Monday October 30.

General Topic—Finance and Investments.

1. Measures to be followed for relieving exchange difficulties.

2. The need for greater uniformity in bills of exchange and other commercial documents.

3. Terms of credit in Pan-Pacific area as an aid to foreign trade.

4. Standardisation of trade certificates. How to insure reliability.

Fifth Day—Tuesday October 31. (Last Session)

General Topic—Internation relations in the Pan-Pacific area.

1. Arbitration of commercial misunderstandings.

2. The need for co-operation among the various agencies interested in Pan-Pacific problems.

3. Reports of special committees.

4. Resolutions including recommendations for legislation.

GERMANS STILL PRATTLE ABOUT UNBEATEN ARMY

Hindenburg Hero Of Unprecedented Reception

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, August 21.—Cries of Hoch Hindenburg and Deutschland uber alle were mingled with vociferous cheering and unprecedented demonstrations at the station at Munich today on the occasion of the arrival of Field Marshal Hindenburg.

General Bothmar, in a speech of welcome, congratulated Field Marshal Hindenburg on holding out to the last when perfidious treachery overthrew the unbeaten army.

The Field Marshal replied briefly exhorting his hearers to do their duty.

The Imperial Government had previously made representations to Bavaria forbidding the Reichswehr to participate in the demonstrations. The latter did not advance beyond a vocal and flagwagging stage except in the case of a correspondent of a radical newspaper who was mishandled but was rescued by the police.

De Valera And His Men Now Bandits

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Aug. 22.—Approximately $2,300,000 is tied up by the Supreme Court granting the attorneys representing Mr. Michael Collins and other Free Staters a temporary injunction restraining the local banks from releasing to Mr. de Valera and his agents monies collected for the Irish Republican cause.

London, August 22.—All semblance of open warfare between the National troops and irreguars is at an end. According to news from Dublin every city and important township from Donegal to Cork are in the hands of Government forces. De Valera and his men are now living the lives of bandits. Some people say it is the beginning of the end while others say that the real fighting is only beginning.

The application for the injunction contended that de Valera was a fugitive and opposed to the established government and that the money would be used to further the revolution and prolong the needless civil war.

Reports from Cork say that the irregulars are suing for peace. There is no indication, however, that the mutineers are prepared for an unconditional surrender and the fact that ambushes occurred yesterday at five different places indicates that the irregulars are resorting to guerilla warfare in earnest, but the National Command is said to be determined to throughly sweep the country.

Chinese Delegates Visit Australia

(Reuter's Service)

Melbourne, July 21.—A visitor to Australia from China is Mr. Ma Hsiao-chin, a member of the former Canton Parliament, who is here to inquire into the conditions of Chinese resident within the Commonwealth. Accompanying Mr. Chin is Mr. Chu Yook, editor of Hongkong "Truth."

CROSS RATE

Other Allies "Obsessed With Desire To Regain Markets," Says Poincare

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, August 21.—M. Poincare today attended the unveiling of the first milestone along the Voie Sacree, 57 kilometres from Bar-Le-Duc on the way to Verdun, over which the French troops marched in 1916 to support the stricken town.

The Premier subsequently delivered a speech, disclaiming the French desire for aggrandisement. France only asked for the execution of the treaties and payment for damages. France's friends, however, were obsessed with the desire to recover foreign markets. He declared that the Allies came to an understanding three years ago at the expense of France and denied her the right to have a French policy. He asserted that Britain had favored granting the German request for a moratorium without consulting France and had simultaneously issued the Balfour Note, to France's great surprise, at the moment when Germany was announcing that she would not pay. He considered this coincidence a regrettable one, to say the least.

M. Poincare then embarked on a maze of figures, showing that after allowing for deficits on her commercial balance France had paid abroad to the end of last year 54,000,000,000 paper francs, whereas Germany, with a larger population and without devastated provinces, had not paid 32,000,000,000.

France at present, he continued, did not contemplate demanding payment of the amounts owing her by the Allies and until the German debt was recovered it would be impossible for her to discharge her debt to Britain. He suggested that inter-Allied debts should shortly be discussed at a conference of all the Powers concerned.

M. Poincare went on to say that the French Government adhered to its scheme of positive pledges submitted to the London conference. He hinted at the eventuality of France being reduced to taking pledges without the co-operation of the Allies but declared that she would only keep them until Germany consented to comply with her engagements and concluded: "We are neither Neros nor Bismarcks. We only ask to remain the allies of our allies, the friends of our friends, and to resume with yesterday's enemies peaceful and courteous relations. But we stipulate that our reparations demands shall be satisfied; and they shall be."

Paris, August 21.—M. Lasteyrie, the Minister of Finance, today declared that if a moratorium be granted to Germany, France was determined to demand the necessary guarantees.

The Matin states that M. Poincare when in London assured the representatives of the States who are debtors of France that France will not demand payment of their debts whatever the results of the Balfour Note.

Berlin, August 21.—Sir John Bradbury, the British delegate on the Reparations Commission, and M. Mauclere, President of the Committee of Guarantees, have arrived.

HOME BOUND GOBS TO GO TO MANILA ON THE ABARENDA

U. S. Supply Ship In Port To Convey Men To Manila

The U. S. supply ship Abarenda, which arrived in port yesterday afternoon, will convey sailors brought from Chefoo Monday on the U.S.S. Buffalo, mother ship of the destroyer flotilla, to Manila en route to the United States. The Abarenda will also take those homeward bound men brought from up-river by the U.S.S. Isabel.

The Isabel is scheduled to leave for Ichang next Saturday and the Buffalo, after undergoing repairs, will load supplies brought by the Abarenda for the use of the ships now at Chefoo.

Sastri Concludes Australian Tour

(Reuter's Service)

Melbourne, July 27.—Mr. Srinivasa Sastri, the eminent Indian statesman who represented his country at the Imperial and Washington Conferences, has concluded an extensive tour of Australia and New Zealand, and is now on his way to Vancouver. Mr. Sastri came to Australia primarily in an endeavor to secure franchise rights for Indians domiciled in the Commonwealth. His five weeks' tour embraced every State except Tasmania, and he availed himself of every possible opportunity to express himself furtherance of the claims of his countrymen for participation in local franchise rights.

The Prime Minister of Australia (Mr. W. M. Hughes) and Mr. Sastri had a long conference in Melbourne, but little has been divulged. The Prime Minister announced that legislation would be introduced in regard to granting old age and invalid pensions to the Indian members of the community. He added that the franchise question was still under consideration.

BUREAU RESTORED

Peking, August 22.—The Official Gazette announces the restoration of the Wine and Tobacco Bureau as an independent organ. The Bureau was placed under the Ministry of Finance by Mr. Tung Kang.

RAIN IN PEKING

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 22.—While police reports on it are somewhat vague it appears that 4,000 rooms collapsed and that there were between 40 and 50 deaths in Peking owing to the recent heavy rainfall which damaged many new and supposedly sound buildings.

BEATEN ARMY OF LIU HSIAN DID FIRING ON RIVER BOATS

Alice Dollar Passenger Tells Of Szechuen Situation

SEE PEACE PERIOD

Hsiung Kwei-wu Faction Seem Firmly In Power

Interesting details of the recent military and political disturbances in Szechuen, resulting in the downfall of Liu Hsiang, military and civil governor, and the pushing to the forefront of Hsiung Kwei-wu, are brought to Shanghai by Mr. H. Sandor, of the American-Oriental Bank at Szechuen, who came through the Gorges on the steamer Alice Dollar on her last trip, when that vessel was fired on and badly riddled by Liu's retreating forces.

The remaining troops of Liu, under command of General Yang Sen, are at present in Fuchow, Mr. Sandor says, and, although emissaries have been sent to solicit further aid from Wu Pei-fu, it is believed that they have been decisively crushed and that Szechuen will be free of internal warfare for a period of at least six months, or until the "fighting season" opens again next Spring.

The strife between Liu Hsiang and Hsiung Kwei-wu and his adherents has been going on since early this year, with the fortunes of war going steadily against the former during recent months, a fact which has been viewed with apprehension by foreigners in Chungking and Chengtu, particularly the former city, where Liu and his military commander Yang, have been regarded as progressive and beneficent wielders of power.

FACTIONS TAKE TO ARMS

Li Yu-kuo, Hsiung's lieutenant in Chengtu, was months ago exercising control of the assembly, thereby defeating the aims of Liu and it was the determination of the latter to bring things to a conclusion last March which began the warfare and the series of reverses preceding the change in the political map of the province. With the decision, Yang began moving the Szechuen Red army toward Chengtu, and by April 2 he had reached a point within 20 li of the city. He had previously concluded an agreement with General Deng Hsi-hou whereby the latter was to move troops from the west of Chengtu in a supporting attack. Hsiung, however, went personally to meet Deng, persuaded him to change sides and join the forces of Li Yu-kuo and the two entered Chengtu together on May 15.

Yang was then delivered an ultimatum to leave the field and seeing the situation to be hopeless he retreated. Yang then decided to give battle to opposing forces grouped to the west of Wanhsien. His troops were well equipped, with munitions secured from Wu Pei-fu and considerable stores of ammunition turned out by the mint at Chungking, and his defeat along the line from Wanhsien to Suitingfu came as a big surprise to foreigners watching the developments from Chungking.

With the arrival of news of Yang's defeat, Li Yu-kuo determined to move upon Chungking and Yang concentrated his forces, still in excellent condition despite their reverse, to the west of the city to meet the combined troops of Li and Deng. The issue was joined near Jungchanghsien where, on August 3, Yang was decisively beaten, was himself wounded in the shoulder and began falling back on Chungking.

TREACHERY AGAIN SHOWN

Here again treachery played its part in the outcome, for one of Yang's subordinate commanders, General Wang, who had been furnished with Tls. 100,000 and 200,000 rounds of ammunition to aid in the stand against the enemy, went over to the opposition and moved into a position threatening to cut Yang's army off from Chungking.

A four days' armistice was agreed upon with the Chengtu faction and Yang's men began straggling into Chungking in a bad state on August 6 and 7. Under the armistice terms the troops were to evacuate Changking by the morning of August 5 and this was accomplished by 11 a.m. of the date specified, the men being transferred to the right bank of the river by small steamers and other available craft. Liu Hsian and Yang preceded them, leaving the city at 4 o'clock in the morning. When they had got clear of Chungking the resident populace got out their flags and it was a case of "The King is dead, long live the King!" when the 3rd army under Li and Deng took possession in the afternoon. Li assumed the prerogatives of the civil and military governorships and Deng became his military chief commander. One of the first acts of the new regime was a call for $200,000 to be supplied with by the Chamber of Commerce. The deposing faction had just previously called for $200,000, which they got.

BOATS ARE FIRED ON

It was just subsequent to these developments that the fusillading began of the foreign owned steamships proceeding down the Yangtsze. The firing was general on the part of the troops of the 2nd army retreating toward Fuchow and Mr. Sandor believes that it was inspired by one of two motives—either to get control of the ships so that they might be used for transports, or to secure the sum of 200,000 silver dollars which was known to be on board one of two ships fired on, the Alice Dollar and the Japanese steamer Tacho. This bullion was being brought down river by Mr. Sandor. In order to export silver from Chungking it is necessary to secure a permit from the military authorities and the permission had been given by the outgoing authorities just prior to their retreat.

The firing on the Alice Dollar began at about 7:30 a.m. August 10, Mr. Sandor stated, and lasted for a full hour, the ship plunging ahead at full speed all the while. It was estimated that 500 bullets struck the ship. Captain Crum was the only victim, none of the passengers on the Alice Dollar being hit. Captain Crum had himself taken the wheel when the trouble began and the bullet which struck him pierced the foreign passengers' cabins, struck the armor plate and richochetted onto the bridge, striking the captain on hand, shoulder and jaw. The wound, while painful and bleeding profusely was not serious, and the ferry skipper stuck to the helm and took his ship to safety at the rate of 24 knots an hour.

FATALITY ON ONE SHIP

The Japanese steamer, following closely behind the Alice Dollar, suffered a great deal more severely. The volleys from the banks whipped her unmercifully and one Chinese passenger was killed while fifteen others were wounded.

Among the foreign passengers who went through the exciting experience on the Dollar boat were Mrs. and Miss Windham, wife and daughter of the Dollar Company's representative at Ichang; Miss Warlick, sister of Lieut. Warlick of the U.S.S. Palos, who was travelling to Hankow to rejoin her brother; Mr. Glover, of the B. A. T., and Mr. Sandor.

The present situation on the upper river, Mr. Sandor states, appears to be this: General Yang and Liu are now in Fuchow. They have no money and little in the way of supplies. Yang has sent an envoy to Wu Pei-fu to ask for aid, but, though several thousand of Wu's troops were seen in Ichang and others were reported to be on their way there, it is not believed that the Northern chieftain will be able to send succor, in which case the defeated faction is doomed and there must be peace for a period at least.

REGRET FALL OF LIU

Popular sentiment in Chungking, particularly among foreigners, is one of regret for the downfall of Liu and Yang. Yang, while in charge, had displayed much energy and ability along many progressive lines for the improvement of Chungking and the surrounding country. He had, for instance, set his own soldiers at work on bunding improvements and had projected a motor road to connect Chungking and Chengtu, the survey work on which had been begun under the supervision of foreign engineers. These engineers, since the outbreak of warfare in the district have had narrow escapes from capture or death and at present are unable to carry on the work, though they hope to complete it.

One of the engineers, Mr. F. Shaffer, who was surveying the stretch from Chengtu to Nelkiang, was deserted by his staff and had to spend two weeks in a Chinese temple in a desolate valley. Mr. Baker, of the Asia Development Company, also working on the survey, near Jungchuan, was almost captured by a band of brigands. The leader's mother had been taken prisoner by one of the military chiefs, a General Chen, and it was the bandit's intention to hold the foreigner until ransomed by his mother's release. The engineer, however, had warning and escaped from the encampment just ahead of the attackers.

Banditry is rife in certain parts of the province, Mr. Sandor reports, and Ichang was again looted by a strong band of these gentry on the night of August 6. No foreign property was touched.

The people of Chungking, Mr. Sandor says, are now pinning their hopes upon assumption of power as civil and military governor by Hsiung Kwei-wu, now that his adherents have brought him to the fore as the chief political figure. He is intelligent and energetic, it is declared, and has much of the impressive personality displayed by Yang Sen. He has a reputation for extreme moderation in the matter of "squeeze" and it is felt that if he takes up the reins the country will enter upon an era of reasonable peace and prosperity.

Chang Convoking Conference; Asks 3 Provinces Help

(Eastern News Agency)

Mukden, Aug. 21—Marshal Chang Tso-lin, Commander-in-Chief of the Peace of the Three Eastern Provinces, has a plan to convoke a joint conference of the three provinces at no distant date in the building of the Provincial Assembly of Fengtien to draft a bill for the autonomy of the federation of the Three Eastern Provinces.

It is now reported that Marshal Chang has already issued a circular telegram, requesting the military and civil officials of Fengtien, Kirin, and Heilungkiang to send one representative each the Provincial Assemblies five representatives, and the Agricultural, Industrial, Commercial, and Educational circles one each to the conference.

Li's Resignation Is Again In Question

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, August 22.—At yesterday's sitting of the Senate, it was unanimously agreed in the opinion that the second resignation tendered by President Li Yuan-hung being of such a nature that should be referred to a joint discussion of Both Houses, it was not necessary for the Senate to deliberate upon the matter single-handed.

Anhui Unsafe For Foreign Travellers

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, August 20.—The Foreign Office has notified the Ministers of the foreign powers to restrain their nationals from travelling in the Province of Anhuei in four districts.

These districts are Moyuan, Yinshan, Tungchi, and Fuoyang. This ruling is made because of the local disturbances from bandits and other lawless elements.

Mutineers Given Part Pay; Arms Are Taken Away

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 19.—The authorities of the Peking Garrison and the Peking Gendarmerie have secured temple buildings in which to quarter the men of the 9th Division who have surrendered with their arms.

General Lu Chin has obtained $90,000, with which a percentage of pay will be given to the 9th Division.

BANDITS ROB TRAIN

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 22.—It is reported from Harbin that bandits held up and robbed a mixed train near Kaolintao, 20 miles east of Harbin, on Sunday. One Japanese soldier and one Russian soldier were killed and eight were wounded.

Ancient Treasure May Be Dug Up

King John's Treasure Sunk In Quicksand Now Lies Under Dry Land Awaiting The Discoverer

(Chung Mei Service)

London, (by mail).—Few people in England realise the wealth and variety of that famous King John treasure, which is supposed to rest about forty odd feet below the surface of Long Sutton village fields.

What was quicksand in 1216 is firm ground in 1922 and below that grass covered surface the treasure lies, untouched, preserved from the ravages of time by sound clay. The horses and men and treasure carts which were quickly dragged down through the quicksands remain to this day untouched by the air which brings rust and decay.

Consider the richness of that horde and realise that even a wooden chest of that period, there are about two known at present in museums, would be worth almost anything and then consider what that treasure is made up of!

Wrapped in wax cloths, basketted in great hampers, heaped in casks and wrought iron coffers, is the ransacked treasure of old Gothic England, whose humblest piece of cottage furniture is today worth thousands of pounds.

Bushels of golden coins—a dream of joy to the numisatist—chalices, golden vases, golden cups, ruby studded candelsticks—from parish churches and abbeys including the loot from the fabulously wealthy Crowlands Abbey, all are there.

King John's "chapel" is there beneath the green grass too, and with it the wonderful altar pieces, the carved rood screens, the silver and gold vessels of the communion rites, and it is alleged, the heavy golden cup which was said at the time to be a replica of the Holy Grail.

But not only gold and silver compose the treasure. Buyers of art objects today would pay millions for the horse-troppings and the armor which sunk with that great baggage train.

Those wagons and horses and men, untouched by the corroding air would, once brought above the surface, settle once and for all long disputes on armor and horse furniture relative to the period.

The armor of a thirteenth century knight is beyond the hopes of even the richest collector. Yet below those Lincolnshire fields, deep in protective clay, there rest hundreds of such suits, for the armorers' wagons went down with the treasure, and guarding the horde was many a finely accoutred knight.

In the tower of London is a spoon of the thirteenth century and a helmet of a knight of King John. The spoon and the helmet together, if sold, would keep the vendor for the rest of his life in luxury, leaving enough over to buy ten motor cars every year. No suit of thirteenth century armor is in existence today—that is to say above the ground.

Think what waits the men who will undoubtedly, one day, unearth the treasure. Rare pieces of chain mail. The quartered and emblazened shields, the swords with silver and gold pommels, the maingauche daggers, hauberks, lances, barrel helmets and sugar loaf helmets, the bows and arrows, and the gold and enameled breastplates. What a dream for the sales rooms of Europe!

That wagon train is estimated to have been at least two miles long. Engineers say that a thirty foot or forty foot trench cut boldly across the line where King John's men fled in terror from the sands, would soon strike wagon wheel or steel helm—a beacon guide for the diggers to find their way to the wealth of the wicked King.

So far no attempt to salve this wonder horde has been attempted. What? There is nothing against an attempt. Probably it is the magnitude and wealth of this subterranean mine of riches which keeps away the treasure hunter—and the thought that what once belonged to a King of England is royal property today. But sooner or later that treasure is going to be unearthed.

back of the grandstand to chase fouls—was catching, and trying to accustom himself to the mask and protector.

Well, a high foul went up and the coolie took after it, and in his frantic haste he stumbled and went splashing head first into one of the big puddles. The water was only about half a foot deep and when the coolie came up the other coolies were amazed—and delighted—to see that in his mask, which he had neglected to remove, a live four pound fish had become enmeshed. There it was, kicking and flopping and trying its durndest to bite the coolie's nose off.

The fish probably had been washed into the park when the race track drainage ditches overflowed.

Help Yourself, Then Others Will Help You, Says Little Hsu To Chinese Diplomats

Disposed Political Leader, Writing In New Book, Asserts Weak Should Put Itself On Guard Against Encroachment By Strong

"God only helps those who help themselves."

This summarises the thought expressed by General Hsu Shu-tseng, formerly Anfu political party, writing on diplomacy in his new book on National Reconstruction. General Hsu maintains that China must set her own house to order if she is to secure any gains in international intercourse. There is no love in diplomacy, he contends. It is a matter of "give and take."

A translation of extracts from his chapters on international intercourse follows:

"There is no set rule to regulate the course of diplomacy. Diplomatic intercourse is based on the strength of a nation. History tells us that there were big countries that bow to the will of the small, while at other times, the small ones were subjugated by the big. So long as a nation persists in strengthening itself, safeguarding the interest of its people and putting itself on sound basis, the neighboring powers will refrain from encroaching upon its right.

"It is only when one can help himself that others can help him. When one cannot stand on his own feet, others have to look after their own interest. If a nation blindly believes that there there is love in international intercourse, its days are numbered. It will fall into a pit set by the 'friendly powers.' Once fallen, it will be too late to extract herself.

"Although we have a large country, we are weak. It is not other country or countries that are trying to weaken us, but it is ourselves who are losing our vitality. Unless we devise some means whereby we can strengthen ourselves, we will remain weak forever.

"While it is essential that diplomats of weak nations must bear in mind the foregoing principle, there are certain other precepts which they would do well to observe.

"1. They must keep faith and stick to diplomatic procedure.

"At the time of Confucius, the Dukedom of Tseng was the weakest. The two big dukedoms, Tsing and Chu, struggled for its dismemberment. The least slip on the part of Tseng would have caused its ruin. But when Kung Sun Chiao headed the administration, inter-state diplomacy was cleverly handled and the strong was unable to coerce the weak. When we examine the acts of Kung Sun Chiao, we find nothing of special merit except that they are carried out with faith and proper diplomatic procedure.

"Today, the world powers present a atmosphere not unsimilar to that existing during the time of Confucius. China is the Tseng of modern history. Acquisition of Tseng would have made either Tsing or Chu formidable. In the same manner, any nation that can subjugate us today will rule the world.

"The principle upon which Kung Sun Chiao worked was to utilise the feeling of rivalry among the big states so that their competition will benefit his own country. So long as we keep faith and give other people what is due them and stay firm on our own claims and do everything systematically, no aggressor will be able to give free play to his desire and exercise his self-aggrandising policy.

"Foreign powers do not act this way for love of justice. But they are afraid to disturb the equilibrium and caused jealousy from rival powers. The establishment of the doctrine of 'equal opportunities' in China is beneficial to us. We are protected and kept intact through a mere stroke of luck. We are given a chance despite of weakness. It is up to us to readjust ourselves and set our own house to order.

"2. Preserve our sovereign rights. A person remains master of the situation when he has power and asserts his rights. He becomes a servant when he loses his power. When you enter a house and tell the master that he has no right to be there, he at once becomes irritated. But with a weak nation, few care for the result of diplomatic intercourse. I have seen the modern diplomats at work. Our territories are being held by foreign powers. Our customs tariff is being collected by foreign staffs, our people are being governed by foreign administrations. We consider these circumstances as natural and refrain from formulating any plans to replace them.

"We are in the habit of expecting a third party to struggle for us and restore back to us our rights after it had secured from our aggressors. Day in and day out, year in and year out, we become insensitive to the pains of a subjugated country and forget the spirit with which we should regard our nation's rights.

"In military science, one must know what the enemy is going to do in order to plan ahead what precautions he must take. In diplomacy too, one should formulate complete schemes on various questions so that you will be equal to the occasion when the matter is brought up by a foreign power. When you always place yourself in an offensive position, you can never lose in diplomacy.

"3. Secret should be your moves in diplomacy.

"When cordial international relation exists between nations, peace is assured. In dealing with foreign nations, the ideal diplomat must exchange their views candidly, courteously and faithfully along the best usage in international relationship. All diplomatic agents are considered as gentlemen and are equals.

"It is natural that the human beings like to associate themselves with others of like interest and aspirations. They exclude those who differ from them materially. Hence there is always friendship between certain nations and enmity between others. As the cleverness of the human being increases, the method of competing becomes more intricate and effective.

"There are nations which will assist you and others that will harm you. Others will apparently help but really do you harm while still others will help you for a time and leave you in a lurch when interests conflict. Some will poison you with sweet intoxicating schemes while others will both assist and harm you at the same time.

"Considering the present circumstances in China, we ought to be thankful to those who refrain from either helping us or harm us and allow us to work our own salvation. We should hold no malice towards any one who plans to harm us. On the other hand we should not expect any one to help us. In a word, in diplomacy, we must know ourselves first and then know others. Do not be intoxicated with the flattery of foreign diplomats, but be careful with every move that other diplomats make.

"Put yourself on the guard and then consider the best method of handling the agents. Welcome them or resist them at will. Make them your tools instead of allowing yourself to be made tools by them. Diplomacy is best when it is kept secret. And the process of intercourse should involve as much trickery as possible. Never move about bluntly and clamor openly in your attempt to secure results."

Blake's Colleagues Are Still Missing

(Reuter's Service)

Calcutta, Aug. 22.—Shipping in the Bay of Bengal have been instructed by wireless to look out for Major Blake's colleagues. Coastal stations have similarly been advised but there is still no news although they have been missing over two days.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, August 21.—Major Blake has cabled here from Calcutta.

"As there had been no news about the Feralay sea-plane since it has left Calcutta, enquiries have been made in various places. It is considered that as there was a cyclone in the Bay of Bengal on the 19th instant, it might have landed at a part of the sea coast where no one lives."

Colonel Brownbloom arrived at Yokohama today as advance agent of Major Blake to prepare for landing places and supplies. He stated regarding the illness of Major Blake, that he had sent an enquiry into his condition.

In the present flying trip, Captain Millan is a pilot while Major Blake is the guide, and depending upon the nature of indisposition of Major Blake, he (Colonel Brownbloom) may have to act for him.

The proposed landing places in Japan are Nagasaki, Kobe and Yokohama and the date of arrival at Yokohama will be either at the end of September or in the first week in October owing to the delay due to the indisposition of Major Blake.

He says also that the seaplane will proceed to Vancouver from Yokohama via Kumaishi, Nemuro, Shumushu and the Aleutian archipelago to Alaska.

NORWEGIANS ASK $15,000,000 FOR SEIZED VESSELS

Big Sum Demanded As Compensation To Owners

(Chung Mei Service)

New York, August 17.—Among the many arbitration bodies now sitting in various parts of the world, is one at the Hague whose duty is to pass on the $15,000,000 claim made by the Government of Norway against the United States Shipping Board. This money is demanded on behalf of the citizens of that country whose property was requisitioned during the war by the United States Emergency Fleet Corporation.

The crux of the issue is said to be on the point made by the Government of Norway on behalf of the Norwegian shipowners, that the Emergency Fleet Corporation in addition to requisitioning the ships under construction, materials and commitments for materials appertaining thereto, also requisitioned the contracts under which these ships were being constructed.

This is denied by the United States and will have to be settled by the Board of Arbiters. This Board consisted of three men, the appointee of the King of Norway, Mr. Benjamin Vogt Norwegian Minister to London; the appointee of President Harding, Mr. Chandler P. Anderson, and the appointee of the President of Switzerland, Mr. Vallotten, a Swiss citizen.

The meetings are to be held in accordance with an agreement signed between the United States and Norway under date of June 30, 1921.

The Shipping Board will be represented by what is known as the "Agency of the United States" which consists of Mr. W. C. Dennis, Agent; Mr. G. Sutherland, Counsel: S. H. Udy, Associate Counsel: T. Adamson Technical Expert: E. Underwood, Jr., Disbursing Officer; C. E. Gray, Attache; and M. P. Shan, Clerk.

Swatow Exporting Flour Made From Sweet Potatoes

Peking, August 17.—Statistics have just been given out showing that in 1921 Swatow produced and exported 8,295,200 pounds of sweet potato flour. Eighty percent of this is shipped to other points in China while the remainder goes to Siam, Singapore and certain points in the South Seas where there are Chinese residents.

This total output is produced entirely by manual labor. Women put the potatoes through several series of water tubs to get the skins thoroughly clean and another set of women drive them around in large crocks whose inner surfaces are scarified before glazing so that a surface somewhat like a tin grater remains.

With a powerful sweep of her arm, the potatoes are swirled around against the rough side of the container and the skins are off. A similar process reduces them to a pulp, after which they are sun dried and are ready for market.

Fort Mills' Hitting Beats Meiji Nine By 5-0 Score

Parsuch Holds Japs Almost Hitless; Watanabe Weakens

Fort Mills hitters rapped out a 5-0 win over Meiji university at the Ball Park yesterday afternoon, cinching their three-game series against the Japanese by two games won and one yet to go. Parsuch, the soldier twirler held the collegians hitless from the first inning when Kihara drove one through short, until the ninth when Hayashi and Inaba each counted safeties. Meiji never threatened Fort Mills. Only one Jap reached first until the fifth when McGinnis booted a grounder. Only one man reached second until the ninth when two belated bingles and a wild throw put men on third and second.

Watanabe who has hurled every game for Meiji since the nine arrived here, started in the box for the 'Varsity nine after having gone through a hard nine innings on Monday against Shanghai. He was going strong, but not in the stronger form that he showed in his fresher starts. He was yanked in the sixth for Hawishi after allowing five runs and eight hits.

GAME WAS A THRILLER

The game on the whole was a thriller. There were fine flashes of fielding on both sides, good solid hitting by the soldiers, umpiring of odd sorts, and squabbles over decisions and discussions of ground rules that kept the thousands in the stands on edge.

Cummings singled through Watanabe in the second, after Aldinger had foul flied out to Uneida. Droski's walk advanced him to second. He took third when Droski was forced at second and Storalski was called safe on a fast try for a double on the play. Parsuch's hit to third scored the run. Browski flied out to Kihara.

In the fourth Aldinger singled over third, was sacrificed to second by Cummings and scored on Droski's Texas Leaguer to right. Nybegawa might have cut the run off at the plate but he chose to play the batsman. Storalski fanned; Parsuch tripled, scoring Droski, and Hayashi retired the side by throwing Browski out off his little grounder.

McGinnis walked in the fifth when one was down. Lowe sent him to third on a hit through short. The two advanced a base on Aldinger's infield out. Cummings rapped one through Watanabe bringing both men home.

Hawishi held the soldiers' hitting down from the sixth inning on. Lowe reached first in the seventh but died there. Cummings got on in the eighth on a hit through the box and was sacrificed to second by Droski, but two succeeding fly-outs left him on base.

RULES HELP THE SHUTOUT

Meiji got one man, Hayashi, on third base twice in the ninth inning, but ground rules only allowed him one legal perch on the base. He drove a fast bouncing hit at Parsuch, who knocked it down, fell over it, and finally made a desperate attempt to throw the runner out at first. The throw was not only too late, but it also was too hurried. The ball went past Aldinger, and off into the crowd surrounding right field, Hayashi taking third before Lowe retrieved it.

A big altercation followed the play. The ancient ground rule always in effect on the local field: "A base runner may take but one base on an over-throw to first or third unless the ball hits the grandstand" was quoted by the umps and the Fort Mills side, but the Japanese couldn't see it. They maintained that their man had made third on a clean and legitimate play, though their manager admitted when pinned down that he had the rule explained to him before the game, and had agreed to it.

The Japanese Captain, however, who does not understand English, and who had not understood the ground rule insisted that Hayashi should remain at third. The Manager waved the runner back to second and he trotted backward in compliance. The Captain stopped the runner half way to second and ordered him back to third, and Hayashi obeyed again. The thing was repeated a half dozen times while Captains, Managers, Umpires and other moguls argued the thing, but finally the ground rule prevailed and Hayashi took his allotted one base instead of the hoped-for two.

An interesting point about the play is that Hayashi might have made third base had the ground rule of one base on an overthrow not been in effect. Lowe fielded the ball promptly without any semblance of interference from the crowd in right, due perhaps to the ball hitting the bamboo fence in front of the ditch and bouncing back toward him. Hayashi had the base fair enough, but rules is rules, and they cannot be changed in a moment to suit even Meiji.

Hayashi died on third, losing the Meiji nine its only chance to dodge a shut-out. Tateya fanned for the first out while Hayashi was still on second. Uneida flied out to center. Inaba singled to left putting Hayashi on third. Inaba stole second on a short throw from Browski to McGinnis. Kihara flied out to Hawley and the game ended.

Shanghai Plays Last Game With Fort Mills Today

Shanghai closes its season with Fort Mills this afternoon, when it goes into the sixth game of the series commencing at 4:45 o'clock. Gallop's men now stand at the short end of the series at four lost to one won. The soldier nine leaves for Manila Saturday. The leaver for Manila Saturday. The best the local nine can do is to take the losing end of four to two on the series. Kingman probably will work against the soldiers today, with Wilhoit at first and John Scott filling out the outfield.

Baseball Averages Slump In Last Two Weeks Of Play

Late season averages find the local baseball men dropping off in batting, and pitching averages, and holding but fair percentages in fielding. The slump all around is to be credited to the high class of ball presented by latter-day visiting teams. Fort Mills and Meiji have done awful things to Shanghai averages.

Batting and pitching averages suffered mostly in the last two weeks. Maloney still leads in both departments but he with the majority of other players are credited with figures much smaller today than two weeks ago before the present two series commenced.

Harry Kingman is the only local batter who has fattened his average against the high grade hurling prevailing since the last figures were hung up. Kingman was rated at 323 on August 5. he bats at 367 today. Hopkins gained a point, Wall picked up eight points, Wynn added seven to his average; all others slumped.

The fielding averages, compiled for the first time this year show Woods of the present regulars leading, Hirsh second, Scott third, Kingman fourth and Jack Smith fifth.

The averages shown below are not complete. Only those players actively engaged or likely to work in present games are figured. A complete record for every man who has played this season will be published when play is suspended.

Sporting Editor's Letter Box

The Sporting Editor,
THE CHINA PRESS:

Sir: What we need in Shanghai badly is some good head work on the part of our battery, and a good whip behind the bat for that sweet old snap to second. Eh, Fans?

As an ardent and patriotic fan, I would certainly like to see our local team get at least one game from that nifty little Meiji bunch. But, if Shanghai can't do any better than they did on Monday, I am resigned to see Meiji win every game. We all know the trouble Monday was "no head work" (apologies to Hoppy and Scott). No real generalship on the job.

That reminds me, I know that Billsy never made a claim as being a pitcher, but I certainly remember some fine work he did in the box in 1917 and I'm sure Billsy still has it in him. Freddie hasn't all the speed in the world, but he has some good stuff, and Fans, remember, he thinks fast and uses his head all the time. Put Billsy in the box and there'll be some generalship. But remember, some one with that old whip is needed behind the bat. We have lost enough this series on this score and the lack of the old pep.

Go back to 1917, Shanghai-All Navy Games, 32 games, from May 19 to the last game in September, closing the season, Billsy was No. 2 on a list of (8) on the Pitchers' Records. He didn't win the Pc. .667 with his arm in this series: it was head work, keeping the outfield and the infield where they should be (something badly needed just now), and on their toes all the time.

Thanks for the space and inclosing my card.

"HEAD WORK."

Parbury And Mansel Smith Play For Charity Today

Meet In High Class Singles For Swatow Fund On S.C.C. Court

The Shanghai Cricket Club, tennis section, is holding a tennis match this afternoon for the benfit of the Swatow Typhoon Relief Fund. Mr. Mansel Smith, one of the best singles in Shanghai, who has just returned from a visit in the States, will meet Mr. Parbury, 1922 singles champion of the local association. The match will go to the best three of five sets.

The match will probably be the last really first class singles played on local courts this year, inasmuch as all but club singles have been decided. Parbury has been the sensation in local tennis this year taking the singles, the Hong Doubles with Humphreys over most of Shanghai's best, and going to the semi finals of the Men's Doubles when paired with George, against the new doubles champs, Roberts and Dawson.

Mansel Smith is perhaps the best singles player on the long role of S. C. C. tennis men. He has represented Shanghai often in interports, particularly last year when he played five hard sets against the Hongkong Champion Ng Sze Kwong in an interport meet after the spring Olympics and Open Games. Mansel Smith is in strong form right now and should play Parbury a match well worth watching.

The match today commences at 4:30 o'clock. An admission charge of $1.00 will be asked at the gate or tickets may be obtained beforehand from any member of the committee.

TESTIMONY ENDS IN MOORE TRIAL; RULING RESERVED

Case Is Submitted Without Argument By Attorneys For Both Sides

The closing testimony was heard yesterday in the United States Court for China in the case of Mr. P. R. Moore who is charged with having committed adultery with Mrs. Harriet Howard Swinehart. At the conclusion of the trial Mr. Leonard G. Husar, United States District Attorney, and Mr. F. J. Schuhl, who appeared for the defense, agreed to submit the case without argument and a decision is to be given by Judge Lobingier in the course of the next day or two.

At yesterday's hearing after Mrs. Swinehart had been cross-examined, her husband, complaining witness in the action, was recalled to the stand in rebuttal of testimony she had given.

On taking the stand at the opening of the hearing Mrs. Swinehart made a general denial of statements of witnesses for the prosecution concerning what happened at the Bickerton Hotel on April 23. She asserted she had seen Mr. Brown tear off Mr. Moore's belt when Brown and Swinehart forced an entrance to the roof.

Cross-examined by Mr. Husar Mrs. Swinehart said that she had discussed going into the silk undergarment business for export with her husband for some time. Mr. Husar devoted most of his cross-examination to questions concerning this business as it had considerable to do with the relations between Mrs. Swinehart, Mr. Moore and Mr. Swinehart.

Mrs. Swinehart described the formation of Moson, Hart & Company by herself, Mr. Moore and an unnamed Shanghai business man, as an outgrowth of numerous talks they had all had concerning the exporting of silk underwear to America. They had struck on that name, she said, because Swinehart was a German name and they didn't think it would go well in business.

DENIES MOORE GOT MONEY

The company was capitalised at G.$5,000, she said, she advancing G.$4,000 for 400 shares and Moore giving his note for the same amount. Moore was to go to the United States and handle the business there and she was to do the buying and designing. She denied that Moore had ever received any salary for his work.

"Moore didn't draw any salary then for designing the ladies' underwear?", Mr. Husar asked.

"No," Mrs. Swinehart replied, "I did the designing."

Concerning loans said to have been made to Mr. Moore by the Swinehearts Mrs. Swinehart repeated that she had given Moore the money under Mr. Swinehart's direction and before him.

Cross-examined on the events alleged to have taken place when Mr. Swinehart broke in the door of her room at the Bickerton Mrs Swinehart held to her story of a 'frame-up' as she told it Monday on the witness stand. She insisted Moore was fully dressed, and although it was getting dusk you could still see very well in the room and there was no need of lights.

MOORE TESTIFIES

Mr. Moore, on the stand in his own defense, told substantially the story as Mrs. Swinehart had, asserting throughout that the charge was a frameup and that there had been no dmproper relations between Mrs. Swinehart and himself at any time. Questioned by Mr. Schuhl concerning information given by witnesses for the prosecution Moore denied that he had gone out 'night after night' with Mrs. Swinehart and accounted for the four times he ever took her out without Mr. Swinehart, corroborating Mrs. Swinehart.

Testifying as to the events that occurred on April 23 at the Bickerton Mr. Moore testified that he had gone to the hotel at Mrs. Swinehart's request to go over the plans and patterns of their undergarment venture and after being in the room for several hours working had excused himself and gone to the bathroom. While there he heard the noise at the door and came out just as Mr. Swinehart broke in the door.

CLAIMS "FRAMEUP"

"I was fully dressed," Mr. Moore said, "and the room was in order. Swinehart fell down as he came into the room and Brown rushed over to me, tore at my trousers. Then Brown and Swinehart together forced my hands behind me and jerked my coat off. Both tried to pull my trousers down and I fought them to keep them up. After they'd called the 'boys' in to see me and I had also called the 'boys' and told them to observe the bed. It was then that Brown went over and mussed up the bed."

In cross-examination Mr. Husar attempted to dig into Moore's past but was thwarted by objections by Mr. Schuhl which Judge Lobingier upheld. Mr. Moore said he had been married since 1909 and had three children. His family had been in the States since 1916, he said, but had been in China previous to that time. Until 1916 he was with Wayland Academy at Hangchow, a school conducted by the Baptist Mission (North) and had later been with a Chinese labor battalion in France.

Moore denied that he had ever been a professional palmist or knew anything about palmistry, although he admitted reading Mr. and Mrs. Swinehart's hands once 'for a joke'.

"SIMON CALLED PETER"

Considerable amusement was caused when Mr. Husar asked Mr. Moore if the book they were discussing just before the door was broken in was "Simon Called Peter".

"I object", shouted Mr. Schuhl, jumping to his feet. "That's a suggestive book. I've read it and it's got a frameup in just like this".

Mr. Moore didn't remember the name of the book.

"You were thrown out of the Bickerton because of another affair with a woman, were you not?" Mr. Husar asked.

Again Mr. Schuhl objected but Mr. Moore answered that it was not true.

DENIES ALLEGATIONS

Mr. Swinehart, as a rebuttal witness for the prosecution denied that he had at any time threatened he would make Mrs. Swinehart's name 'mud,' and also denied ever having kicked Mrs. Swinehart out of bed as she testified Monday. He insisted the reason she had left the Ben building apartment that night was because of their quarrel over the furniture owned by Moore. Mr. Swinehart also asserted that Mrs. Swinehart had at that time the $4,600 gold in the bank and was not almost penniless.

He also denied having quarreled with her continuously over household expenses, and asserted he had never beaten her up as the result of quarrels.

The defense also called Mr. T. Schneider to testify concerning the Swinehart's account at the American-Oriental Bank, and Mrs. A. M. Sheldon, an embroidery exporter who was in the same offices with Moore for a time, and who testified that it was she who suggested to Mrs. Swinehart that she go into the underwear export business with Moore.

No. 102. British and overseas Cups.—The competition for these cups will be held on Sunday morning, September 3.

The conditions of the actual competition are identical for both Cups.

The Overseas Cup, however, is open to British Units or British Members of Units, while the British Cup is open to non-British units or members.

Overseas Cup.—Units, consisting of 75 percent or more British members, wishing to compete for the Overseas Cup must enter teams of 1 F. U. C. & 6 men from each troop, artillery, engineer or Machine gun Section, or infantry platoon.

Units, consisting of less than 75 percent British members may enter one British team only (1 F. U. C. & 6 men).

British Cup.—Entries from the American, Portuguese, Japanese, Chinese and Italian Companies will consist of teams of 1 Fire Unit Commander & 6 men from each platoon (one team only from Italian Company).

The Customs and Maritime Companies may enter single teams of non British members (1 F. U. C. & 6 men) for this Cup.

Entries (in both cases).—All entries must be made in writing to Corps Headquarters before noon on Wednesday 30. Names of teams need not be submitted but unit commanders willl furnish a certificate on the day of the competition that all members of each team formed part of the particular troop, section or platoon on August 1, 1922.

General conditions.—The first portion of the competition consists of judging distance of four targets by the F. U. C's of all teams.

For the second portion of the competition, F. U. C's will join their teams on the range and carry out the Musketry portion. All firing will be done from a fixed range. There will be four practices, one for each range previously estimated by the F. U. C's. at the commencement of each practice, the range previously estimated will be put on the sights, and aim taken at the bullseye shown. A succession of volleys will be fired by each team until the F. U. C. is satisfied that his fire is in the required rectangle, after which independent fire may be resorted to. After each volley the M. D. I. of the shots will be indicated by a small spotting disc. This spotting disc as well as the rectangle in which the shots should strike if fired with sights set to the correct range of the object previously judged, will be visible only to the F. U. C. using field glasses. 5 rounds per man and 2 min. exposure of target will be allowed for each practice.

The respective Cups will be awarded for the year to the Unit which has the best average score amongst its various teams.

N. B.—F. U. C's must bring field glasses.

No. 103. Officers Leave.—Lieutenant B. Y. Woo, Chinese Company, 27-8-22 to 27-9-22.

Pact Is Arranged By Bavarian And German Ministers

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Berlin, August 21.—The newspapers state that the German Cabinet Ministers and the Bavarian delegates have come to an agreement with regard to the dispute in respect of the laws for the defence of the Republic. The delegates have returned to Munich, with which the decision now lies.

Bandits At Shenchow Attack Foreigners

(Eastern News Agency)

Peking, August 21.—On the night of the 17th instant, native brigands attacked Shenchow, Honan and after looting the town they carried away one French, one Greek and four Chinese of the railway office as hostages. They treated their families badly, they also assaulted a Russian lady and her daughters and ran away before daybreak of the 18th. They are demanding a ransom to the amount of $3,000 for the French citizen.

Only the very best quality of live elastic, made from new rubber, is used in the manufacture of and that is one reason why they give greater comfort and longer wear than you expect of any other garters. You will know this when you wear a pair of Paris Garters. You will also discover the other four of the famous five reasons why Paris Garters have become the standard throughout the world.

All haberdashers sell Paris Garters in both the double and single hose grip models and in either cotton or silk. But be SURE they are Paris Garters to avoid disappointment.

Insist on getting the genuine.

"The Verdict of the Great Public" has again been given in our favour. It is the only verdict we are concerned about. Our Sales this year have increased at top speed, due to our downright and open policy in the preparation of our making them the most popular on the market. Bluff will not work with the Public these times, so let any doubting Thomas' come down here to have it proved to them.

This result has been the more gratifying as there apparently has been an organised conspiracy to deprive us of it. The expected slump did not materialise.

It is one of the "Penalties of Success."

We thank the Public for their continued support and apologise if there have been any delays at the height of the season.

BIG MERGER IN RUBBER ESTATES

£50,000,000 To Be Capital For Acquiring Plantations In Various Areas

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 21.—An outline is given in the newspaper Financier of the American proposal to organise an international plantation rubber company, amounting to a plan of co-operation between the producing industry and American financial interests.

It is proposed to form a corporation called Rubber Plantations, Limited, to be registered in London with an authorised capital of £50,000,000, to acquire estates in each of the rubber-growing countries which will be operated through agents as at present, with a possible regrouping of interests to secure efficiency and economy, the services of any agents affected by such regrouping to be utilised wherever possible; otherwise they will be compensated.

Representatives of the plantation rubber industry have been invited to confer with the American interests, including rubber manufacturers, with regard to the situation. The last proposal at least is likely to be accepted, as it has already been sympathetically considered by the Council of the Rubber-Growers' Association.

Shangtung Bandits Again Harassing Two Rail Lines

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, August 12.—Despite the fact that the martial law edict has been lifted in Shantung, reports from Tsinanfu indicate that all is not peaceful and rosy. Supposedly the banditry along the two railways and even in the interior, resulting from the late fighting, was all put down and there was no further need of military law.

This is not borne out by reports received by the American Consul in Tsinanfu, who has many calls for the protection of American property in Shantung Province. It is now the height of the kaoliang season and the high stalks provide perfect hiding places for the robbers to secret themselves before making a sudden attack. The crop itself also is an incentive to bandits for it means more actual wealth for the moment.

However, no specific outrages are mentioned in the report submitted.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 12.—Reports from Shantung state that conditions there are very disturbed and bandits have been unusually active since the recent civil war. Martial law has been suspended on the Shantung and Tientsin-Pukow railways, but passengers are still subject to examination in suspicious cases.

REWARD!

One hundred dollars, worth of thrills, smiles and tugs at your heart in this gripping romance of a girl's love and sacrifice.

For the sake of her brother's honor, she was scorned as a wanton, branded as a thief.

Trapped at last! The man whose love she spurned, had laid his plans well.

So he thought But when the "other woman" came—well, compared with the terrific scenes which follow, this girl's robbing a safe is only one stirring episode in a big, smashing tale of sacrifice, love and conflict.

Get on the trail of "The Virtuous Thief" today!

But when the reckoning came-Hurray! You'll be glad you came to see it.

SOVIET COINING SILVER COINS TO FLOAT NEW NOTES

Not To Circulate But Will Be Used To Lend Stability To Note Issues

(Chung Mei Service)

London, (by mail). — Silver coins to the amount of 5,000,000 roubles have been minted by the Russian Government in the Petrograd mint, according to the Moscow correspondent of the Rigasche Rundschau. The minting was begun August 1 and the coins are of 10, 15, 20 and 25 kopeks and one rouble. They are 90 percent silver and 10 percent alloy.

This currency is not to go into circulation, however, but is to form the security for a new note issue, which may eventually supersede the old one. The coins greatly resemble the old Tsarist coins, except that they bear a Soviet inscription.

"Amazing as it may seem" the correspondent writes, "an improvement in the currency conditions of Soviet Russia may be noted in the last month, chiefly caused by the cessation of paper money issues. The measures taken by the Government with a view to stabilising the currency could almost be called brutal.

"Meanwhile the rouble's rate rises. Food and commodities are cheaper—bread, black and white, by about 40 percent. Everywhere there is the greatest money shortage. Wages can no longer be paid and many of the chief industrial enterprises are unable to meet their financial undertaking."

The Moscow bourse during and following the Genoa conference was the scene of a feverish activity, debentures and shares recently without any real value suddenly attained surprising heights. The Russian Rente (1000 roubles) is now quoted at 90 million roubles. Naptha and railway shares are also in great demand.

The State Bank also is buying foreign currency but does little business as the rates in the free market are considerably higher.

Parley At Venice May Bring End To Turkish Conflict

(Reuter's Service)

London, August 21.—In response to the suggestion of the British, French and Italian High Commissioners at Constantinople, Britain has notified the French and Italian Governments of its agreement in principle to the holding of a conference at Venice between the High Commissioners and the representatives of Greece and Turkey with a view to settling the Graeco-Turkish conflict.

The conference probably will not assemble before the end of September.

TAMING OF SHREW TO BE PRESENTED BY CHINESE GIRLS

(China Press Correspondence)

Kuling, August 17.—Ambition to help raise money for a permanent summer home has led the twenty-five Chinese girls at the Y.W.C.A. camp to begin rehearsals for "The Taming of the Shrew," which they are to give in costume at the Kuling Auditorium on the afternoon of August 24. Besides this ambitious production, the program will include musical numbers and some exhibitions of Chinese fencing.

The idea of giving a fully costumed Shakespearian production in English was hit upon by the girls themselves. Stage-directing, management, and business arrangements are all in their hands. Since the beginning of the season, the girls at the camp have been selling ice-cream three times a week to raise funds for the building, but this means of accumulating capital proved too slow for the ambitious Y.W.C.A. group. They are at present housed in a rented building at the extreme end of Hykes Valley, where the accommodation is limited to twenty-five. Ground for the new quarters has been secured at the head of Lily Valley, and a building large enough for fifty girls is being planned.

The summer camp this year is under the direction of Miss Margaret MacKinley and Miss Harriet Reitveit.

ntence Coolie To Three Months For Postal Fraud

For placing washed postage stamps on mail matter a coolie employed by the Asiatic Petroleum Company was sentenced to three months imprisonment by Assessor Jacobs and Magistrate Tsang of the Mixed Court yesterday. The case was pressed by the Chinese Postal authorities, represented in court by Mr. F. L. Smith, Deputy Postal Commissioner. Detective Sergeant Douglas conducting the prosecution.

The accused was arrested Monday afternoon, Detective Sergeant Douglas said, after it had been found that parcels brought in for mailing bore stamps which had been previously cancelled and had been washed. Mr. Smith, who examined the stamps with a magnifying glass and detected the fraud, sent a man with the coolie to the A. P. C. offices, where the company officials stated that their procedure was to give the coolie the money for the purchase of stamps. The accused admitted that the stamps had been washed and said that he bought them from a man standing near the parcel post department window at the Post Office.

Defendant Ordered To Vacate Premises In Tenancy Action

Judgment for recovery of a month's rent and for possession of premises at 128A Szechuen Road was given by Judge Peter Grain of the British Supreme Court yesterday against Dr. M. S. Mehta and in favor of Abdoolally, Ebrahim and Co.

Plaintiffs, represented by Mr. L. K. Kentwell submitted that the flat was rented to the defendant on a monthly basis and that he had been given a month's notice to vacate on June 14. The defendant, who was not represented by counsel, declared that there was a lease for one year, which did not terminate until April 30, 1923. A number of letters were submitted and the Judge remarked that so far as he could see from the correspondence the tenancy was on a monthly basis.

Plaintiffs agreed to allow the defendant to remain on the premises until the end of September and it was so ordered by the Court. Plaintiffs were also awarded costs.

Kathlyn Williams In Picture Here

Spot and Forward Bar Silver were each up ¼d in London yesterday. The New York price advanced to 69⅝ and the London-New York cross rate to 448½.

Our Official rates here today were unchanged from yesterday and the market during the forenoon was fairly steady, there being generally sellers of Sterling, except just before the Tiffin interval, at 3-5¼ and of Gold Dollars at 77⅛.

A fair amount of business in Sterling was done at 3-5 5-16 and in Gold Dollars at 77⅛, and in fact at one time banks were unwilling buyers at these rates.

However, later in the morning speculators who heretofore had been sellers became buyers. The result was that rates eased off until as low as 3s. 5⅛d. in Sterling, 76¾ in Gold Dollars and 62⅝ in Yen were done. As banks were good sellers at these rates, speculators ceased buying and in fact just before the close again became sellers. The result was that the market closed steady with sellers of Sterling at 3s. 5⅛d. and Gold Dollars at 76⅞ until the end of the year.

Sterling Bills today were done at 3s. 5⅜d., Gold Dollar Bills at 78¼ and Franc Bills at 990. There were, however, very few Bills offering.

China bought silver in London yesterday and the market there is quoted as steady. The New York market is easy with sellers and no buyers at Official quotations.

Mokanshan Has Pleasant Season

(China Press Correspondence)

Mokanshan, Aug. 18.—In spite of some adverse criticism directed at Mokanshan, the present season will undoubtedly be considered by all bona fide Mokanshanites as one of the most delightful ever experienced on these mountains. The weather has been all that could be desired with but few rainy days, thus permitting the fullest enjoyment of all out of door recreations.

Considerable disappointment was felt at the opening of the season that the new Auditorium, which was expected to be ready for use this summer, was far from completion, the walls being not far above the main floor. The delay in construction is due, it is reported, to the very unfavorable weather during the winter. At present the walls are up to the top of the windows of the assembly hall, and there appears no reason why the building should not be finished before the end of the year. The estimated cost is about $14,000. It is contemplated that this building shall not only serve as a place for holding church services and for all public meetings germane to the community's activities, but that the public library shall be housed in one of its rooms, and that the kindergarten and other work for the general welfare and amusement shall here have their headquarters.

Today's Concert

Kansu Militarists Help Drug Growers

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 2.—A letter received by the International Anti-Opium Association from Kansu says:

It must be remembered the position last Autumn of Mr. Pan Ling-kao, Opium Commissioner of Kansu, was a very delicate one. He was practically inquiring into the doings of the Civil Governor, whom he eventually succeeded.

The Civil Governor, Mr. Chen Yin, was a close personal friend of President Hsu Shih-chang and any strongly adverse reports on his administration would have been construed as a personal attack and would have prejudiced the success to the Civil Governorship eventually attained by Mr. Pan.

Mr. Pan Ling-kao is represented as being personally anxious to do his best to clear Kansu of opium, but he is much hampered by the semi-independent generals in the province, notably by the Chinchow and Pingliang commands.

At the end of March he was reported to be doing his best, in the midst of many difficulties, to prohibit the planting of poppy this year.

LABOR TROUBLES

(Reuter's Service)

Budapest, Aug. 21.—There are serious labor troubles here. Forty thousand metal workers who are on strike have been joined by a large number of men from the building trade and the flour mills. Troops are held in readiness.

Kappel's Forces In Siberia Get Busy

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, Aug. 21.—In connection with the Japanese evacuation Kappel's forces are concentrating among the neutral zone up to Spassk.

Japanese residents are leaving Nikolsk and Ussurissk.

Generally, the crops in Siberia are satisfactory except in the regions of Tiumen and Tobolsk.

INDIAN LOAN

(Reuter's Service)

Calcutta, August 21.—The fact that over £30,000,000 have been subscribed to the Government's 6 percent rupee loan thus relieving immediate financial anxieties indicates that the country is not so poverty-stricken as depicted by extremist journals. The total constitutes a record for State borrowing in India for a single year. India's response to the Government's demand for loans in the past six years exceeds £137,000,000.

English View Of Prohibition In America

(From the Manchester Guardian, by a Correspondent Recently in the United States.)

THREE years ago on July 1 the United States as a nation went dry. The legal change was brought about in the first instance by a measure of war-time prohibition. Passed by Congress just as the war was ending, it did not go into effect until more than seven months after the armistice, the war being technically still "on." The eighteenth amendment to the constitution, by which prohibition was written into the fundamental law of the republic, had been ratified in the preceding January, but did not become operative until 12 months later. In October, 1919, Congress passed the Volstead enforcement act by a decisive majority over President Wilson's veto; but the task of enforcement was not taken seriously until after January 16, 1920, the date of the coming of absolute prohibition. Speaking generally, however, we have now before us three completed years of prohibition on a national basis. The results are still difficult to measure, but it ought to be possible for us to arrive at certain fairly definite conclusions with regard to the most remarkable social experiment in modern history.

We in England so far have had very little opportunity of learning the facts. Probably not more than a hundred people in this country know enough about the working of prohibition on a large scale to form a tolerable judgment of the effects, still less to comprehend the way in which it now presents itself to the American public. With us, in the main, prohibition has been treated as a rather bad joke. But clearly the time has come for us to give attention to the actuality, for the English-speaking peoples outside the mother country will make it a dominant issue of the coming generation. I will endeavor to summarise the essential facts as to (1) the demonstrable results and the public feeling in regard to them, (2) the problem of enforcement and evasion, and (3) the question of the permanent acceptance, or modification, of the "bone-dry" law.

Now, to begin with, the English reader should put out of his mind most of the things that are reiterated on this side as to prohibition having been "put over" the American people by the drys, or the anti-saloon league. Behind the federal amendment there lie 60 years of agitation and experiment. At the beginning of the century the drive toward prohibition was already irresistible. By 1910 more than 68 percent of the American people were living in dry territory, covering no less than 95 percent of the total area of the United States. Given this fact, prohibition by federal amendment was inevitable, for it could come by the will of 36 out of the 48 states, irrespective of population.

Again, it should be recognised that enforcement is a problem chiefly of the great cities. The public opinion of the rural and small-town regions is today, as it has been for years, unshakable. So far from the elected representatives of the people opposing the law, they have tended to stiffen it. Three states only failed to ratify the federal amendment in 1919, and one of these—New Jersey, the wettest of the three—has actually ratified this year, in defiance of a governor militantly wet.

One other point in this connection. There is no serious movement in the country against prohibition as such. The electorate has condemned the liquor trade. The saloon has been voted out. The present fight is on enforcement, especially the question of enforcement by federal authority, and on the readmission of beer and light wines. "Light wines and beer now; the saloon never!" was the slogan of a recent anti-Volstead demonstration in New York. The answer to that is the practical dilemma: How, in a country like the United States, could the beer industry be allowed to come back without the public bar and those accompaniments for which, in present-day America, there is no tolerance?

But European visitors to the United States continually assert that prohibition does not prohibit; that liquor is sold, openly and otherwise, in enormous quantities, and the law is violated by all classes, without shame. The "moonshiner" and the "bootlegger" flourish exceedingly; respectable citizens devote themselves to homebrew, and it is commonly added that there is more drunkenness to be seen in the cities than there was before the proclamation of the national dry law, while the enforcement officer is an infamous creature. Let me bring together a few plain results in regard to which there seems no possibility of denial or scepticism.

Reports from all over the country, official and nonofficial, prove the immense decline in drinking among men, and what appears to be an almost complete nonexistence of the habit among women. The state authorities in the main take an emphatic line. Gov. Brown of New Hampshire, wrote at the beginning of this year: "Prohibition is a success in New Hampshire, because it has closed all the saloons and some of the jails, has lessened crime and poverty, has made good industrious citizens out of loafers and drunkards, and has removed temptation from our boys and girls." The governor of Indiana recorded the startling fact that with the coming of prohibition the jail commitments in the state had been cut down to about half. The governor of California said that the good effects were so evident that "thousands of men who voted wet would now vote dry."

In state after state the statistics of the prisons and penal settlements are incontestible, while in countless cities the records of the social-service agencies tell an impressive tale. So with the savings banks and kindred institutions. If you put a challenging question to a school teacher, or any other public servant, as to the effects of prohibition in the home, the answer not infrequently is, "Look at the children and judge for yourself." There can be no doubt at all as to the final judgment of the American woman citizen—"Vote spells veto," as a recent writer puts it.

During more than two years the United States has been passing through a stage of acute industrial and commercial distress, intensified by the explosive after-war emotion of an immense polyglot community. There is, I think, general agreement that the hard conditions have been greatly lightened and social perils diminished with the establishment of the dry regime; and, as we do not need to be reminded, the employing class is thoroughly convinced that prohibition is right and good—for the working population.

Anecdotes From The Vatican

The vivid and rather baffling personality of the new Pope is beginning to penetrate the bronze portals of the Vatican, and the local press is full of opinions and even polemics about the real nature of Pius XI. and the prospects for his pontificate.

Pius is, all agree, a man of the utmost personal vigor and directness. The qualities of the Alpinist who not so long ago scaled a precipitous mountain in the three day climb, spending the nights standing on his feet on a narrow ledge, are evident in the decisions of the pontiff. He is a breaker of old traditions and a maker of new ones and has a healthy lack of respect for the part. The other day he remarked to certain Roman noblemen who were debating the moot question of the Vatican's relation with Italy: "It seems to me that these gentlemen still have the mentality of Leo XIII.'s time."

On the other hand, certain circles complain that the new pontiff is dilatory and fails to make decisions sharply or promptly enough. One cardinal is credited with the remark that if things continue as they now are the Pope's decisions will have only a retroactive value.

A little incident which shows the independence of the new pontiff arose over his approval of the appointment of four private chamberlains, who had been nominated by Benedict. Pius desired in addition to give his private secretary, Monsignor Confalanieri, the same rank.

"Your Holiness," one of the Vatican dignitaries observed, "there are only four posts, and they are already filled. How can there be a fifth chamberlain?"

"Oh, he won't be the fifth," answered the Pope calmly. "I am making him the first chamberlain, and the other four can remain."

Rain or shine, Pius spends the middle of the afternoon in the Vatican gardens, which he finds very restricted for his athletic tastes. He is driven into the garden in the papal carriage, escorted by a royal guard, and at the esplanade of the Madonna of Lourdes leaves the carriage and walks for an hour.

It is said that the first afternoon the Pope started for the gardens the coachman asked, "Where do you wish to go?"

"To the Madonna of Lourdes," Pius answered.

The query and answer were repeated the second afternoon. On the third day, when the coachman again asked the direction, Pius answered:

"But where can I tell you to go? We can't drive around Rome. There are only two paths; must I repeat the same directions every day?"

Sanity And Civilization

SIGNS OF SANITY AND THE PRINCIPLES of MENTAL HYGIENE By Stewart Paton. Charles Scribner's Sons.

Like many other disturbed thinkers, Dr. Paton sees that civilisation is in a bad way. "Does man," he asks, "possess sufficient soundness of mind to exercise intelligent control over the complicated civilisation he has created?" If not, there is catastrophe in sight. This earnest little book is a popular presentation of the thesis, which has been treated more technically by scores of writers.

The starting point of his argument is that man is not likely to be able to exercise any intelligent control of social evolution until he knows a great deal more about himself, both individually and as a unit in the organism, than most of us do today. Therefore, he naturally pays his respects to modern education, which is obviously insufficient, and often misdirected. Problems of heredity, eugenics in general, soundness of mind—a soundness of mind that leads to sound conduct as well as to clear thinking—need deeper study, and the results from such study must be practically applied. Dr. Paton illustrates, briefly, but illuminatively, in such concrete problems as the spread of "nervousness," sex puzzles, Bolshevism, obsessions, and even imagination as they apply to the general problem.

His conclusion manages to be hopeful, as he thinks that "human intelligence intelligently directed, by those who understand human beings, is probably equal to the task of saving human institutions." But, he also warns that we must come with a new constructive plan, out of the "present intellectual revolution," which he sees confusedly in progress. It is a book that deserves study and a wide popular reading.

Canada's Yankee Railroad System

(Springfield Republican)

The Central Vermont railroad which is in New England but not of it, is made the subject of a facetious observation by the Burlington (Vt.) News, which says:

"Speaking of the proposed consolidation of New England railroads we are waiting with large expectation for the great contortion act of the Canadian government's Grand Trunk and Central Vermont railways swallowing the other New England lines or vice versa."

The vice versa is not humorously improbable, or, perhaps, improbable at all. Within a month the lieutenant-governor of New Brunswick, William Pugsley, has demanded that the Canadian government sell its American lines so that Canadian development of an American port should cease. With the maritime provinces looking upon Portland as a rival to their own ports, this sentiment is likely to become stronger, and to have support elsewhere.

The reason why Prof. Ripley did not include the Grand Trunk and Central Vermont in his proposed comprehensive New England system was partly because of their foreign ownership and partly because he regarded their independent control as essential to the preservation of competition in New England. At one time during federal control it was proposed to have the Central Vermont south of White River Junction divided for operating purposes and assigned to the Boston and Maine and the New Haven.

Correspondence

RELATIVITY

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir.—Your correspondent "Nosuch Fish" in his letter this morning propounds two simple questions and answers both wrongly. Yet he has the courage to tilt at Einstein and class the theory of Relativity with "big fish" stories. The valor of ignorance is a wonderful thing.

Though some competent scientists hesitate still to accept Einstein's ideas as proven beyond question, his genius is universally admitted; and the revolution he has effected in our conception of the universe and its workings may yet place him on the same pinnacle as Newton.

"Nosuch Fish" has been reading Sunday supplements, than which nothing can be more misleading in matters scientific. If he cares to spend a couple of dollars and make an effort to bring up his muddled mind to the scratch, I would recommend his buying and reading one of the many elementary treatise on Relativity which have been published in the last two years.

And when he has mastered it, I think he will hesitate before again bursting into print. Enclosing my card, Yours faithfully,

S. S.

Good Business English

The uses of our language Mr. Weseen is concerned with are chiefly those of the writers of letters for business purposes, with its use in business reports as a secondary feature. Commercial correspondence always has a stilted air when reproduced in a work of this kind, from the specimen quoted from Daniel Defoe down to the highly formalised kind in use today. And even the attempts to make sales letters more human and "snappy" do not quite eradicate the stiff repellant style of modern business correspondence.

But business letters have to be written, certain forms have to be adhered to, a uniformity of typewriting, margins, &c., are insisted upon by most large firms. To know what these forms are is imperative to any one who handles the correspondence for a business house; and there could be no better way of finding out just how to write different kinds of commercial letters than studying the pages of Mr. Weseen's very complete textbook. He devotes seven chapters to business letters of all kinds and tells all the latest wrinkles in the "mechanical layout and make-up" of them, the "block" form and what it is, and the very last cry in addressing letters. It may surprise some old fashioned folk to learn that there is such a person as a "correspondence supervisor" in some houses, and we hope the one whose letter is quoted here won't be too much distressed over the date not appearing in his own advisory letter in which he makes a special point of just where the date should go.

The second part of the volume is of more general interest, since it is concerned with such things as the true significance of words, the importance of a good vocabulary, suggestions as how to enlarge our own, and lists of words that show where they come from for our everyday use. There is a suggestive and helpful chapter on learning to spell in which this author remarks on the old spelling bee without noting its return, particularly throughout New York State. He describes the construction of sentences, gives a chapter (and a most practical and helpful one it is) to punctuation, analyses paragraph writing and tells how a manuscript should be prepared.

In addition to the text proper these pages are crowded with lists of words illustrating the author's various points, including a list of 500 everyday words, some variants in English spelling, coined and invented words and lists of words showing compounds in three different stages. On the whole this volume is not only a complete guide to business correspondence as it is conducted today but it is a good working grammar and a desk reference book of the first rank, for use in the schools, in various courses of study and problems are supplied in an appendix completely separated from the parts of the book of use to the student of business correspondence or the general reader who may use this as a reference work.

Fascination Of The Occult

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

(Eminent Astronomer and Authority on Subjects of Scientific Interest)

A correspondent at Vista, California, echoing similar inquiries of others, which appear to be periodical, wishes to know what "scientific people" think of such a phenomenon as "a number of persons lifting another by placing their finger-tips under his recumbent body, using little effort, but 'holding their breath,' or, 'concentrating,' or something else;" and also of the contrasted phenomenon of a 'light-weight' man apparently making himself so heavy that nobody can lift him off his feet.

With regard to things of this kind we are, all of us, like children at the circus. It is delightful to "let ourselves go." At such times many would rather be deceived than not, as long as their self-esteem is not affected, and that never occurs when everybody appears to be equally puzzled.

To submit at will to the control of the mysterious and the inexplicable is, for many persons, a source of ineffable enjoyment. It furnishes the chiaroscuro in the picture of human life. The full sunlight of complete knowledge appears too glaring; the soul finds refreshment in the tempering shadows.

This I offer as a general explanation covering the whole field of the cult of the occult. I am not ashamed to say that I enjoy a good ghost story, or a good mystification, and don't like to have it spoiled, as long as it is content to present itself in the form of an esthetic entertainment and doesn't pretend to be "really supernatural."

I am willing to concede the supernaturalism "in play," and for the sake of a pleasing thrill, but if I am required to admit its absolute genuineness, the hard skeptical light of scientific inquiry at once floods the scene, and awakens the exacting spirit of rigid investigation.

Now, cases like those to which the inquiry above is directed; cases of "levitation" and "anti-levitation"—ought to be relatively easy of explanation. I have never personally witnessed a case of either kind, although I have heard of them all my life; but they seem to resemble ghosts in that it is always somebody else to whom they have appeared. Of course I have heard the testimony of persons who believed that they had witnessed genuine phenomena of this kind, or had taken part in the performance, but—science is never based on testimony.

Science does not accept testimony as proof of anything. Sir Isaac Newton himself would be unable to establish a scientific fact by testifying to it, and, moreover, he would never dream of trying to do so. He would know that the testimony of his own senses was unreliable. The use of intelligence is to correct the senses. "Moral certitude" is unknown to science, which deals only with physical facts, facts of nature, with which moral considerations have nothing to do. Here, by the way, appears the reason why it is absurd to talk of a conflict between science and religion. Whoever tries to stretch the mantle of science beyond the measure of the material world is a darkener of counsel.

Not a single alleged fact in spiritism, or in any field of so-called supernaturalism, is a scientific fact or can have any standing in a scientific court. Photographs don't help such things, but hurt them, because photography is a mastermeans of deception. They are all the products of mere personal impression, and their publicity rests upon nothing but testimony, concerning things that cannot be proved by testimony. They are invariably recalcitrant to verification. Obscurity is of their very essence. Trickery is their habitual concomitant.

The case is not strengthened when the phenomena are displayed before large audiences. A thousand persons together can be much more easily duped than a single individual. The selection of "committees" to conduct investigations on the stage in the presence of the audience is a manifest "play to the gallery." No matter of what material the committee is composed, the situation itself defeats them. No man of scientific spirit would consent to act under such conditions.

Various longings of the human soul are responsible for these obscure beliefs. I will not touch upon the side which leans toward religion, further than to say that I think it is a distortion of true religious sentiment. The other side, which fronts the tendency to find pleasure in the mysterious, has already been noticed.

It remains to say a word about the existence of human powers or faculties of which we are habitually unaware, or which are not equally distributed among men. I do not know whether such things exist or not, and nobody knows for certain. There are seemingly significant phenomena, which are legitimate subjects for scientific investigation, pointing to the possibility that we can, in some way, act through space, as radiant energy acts through space, but if that be so, it is certain that the medium of transmission of the force concerned is no more spiritual than the luminiferous ether is spiritual. A great discovery of recent science is the variability of mass, but as far as we yet know, mass is not variable to a noticeable degree except in connection with immensely rapid motion.

Pearls To Be Strung

BY DR. CH. FLEISCHER

Have you ever read a book by H. G. Wells, called "The Research Magnificent?"

It was written too long ago, as far as concerns fashions in books, to constitute this query as a free advertisement for one of the brain children of this prolific author.

Anyhow, our reference is designed to emphasise the theme of that thought-provoking volume. Evidently, Wells meant to suggest the desirability of a magnificent, world-wide search for those fine souls who, because of their intrinsic excellence, ought to dominate mankind.

The present writer has to write quite personally on this theme, because it has long been one of his pet thoughts, and it involves his interpretation of the innermost meaning of democracy.

More of that further along.

Many years ago the writer was visited by a learned Japanese, who was then representing the Imperial University of Tokio at Harvard. The professor was lecturing on Buddhism, of which he was a devotee.

We talked freely, each right out of the heart and mind of us. After several hours of soulful conversation we found that we were actually speaking the same spirit-speech.

As Kipling has intimated, though East is East and West is West—as far as concerns the average of Orientals and Occidentals—when two men come together who fairly embody the culture of both civilisations, then "surely the twain shall meet!"

The significance of such an experience is in its illustration of the essential identity of the human race.

In this finer sense, it is deeply true that human beings at their best are the same the world over.

To return to the Wells suggestion. His idea is that, scattered here and there—quite irrespective of race, religion, country or station—are men so splendid and so plainly related in spirit as to constitute an aristocratic brotherhood.

It is the function of these choice souls in effect to rule their fellowmen.

They are, as it were, the pearls of the human family, to be strung in the beauty of adornment for all and the glory of service of all.

Do not be alarmed, dear reader. This does not spell treason to democracy. On the contrary, this is its highest expression.

For it is the function of democracy to develop aristocracy.

That is to say, it must be the continuous result of democracy to bring the best, like cream, to the top.

This means, in turn, that in each of us the best becomes dominant and over us all the best, the fittest, should rule.

Think it over, without prejudice.

Ask yourself how close you have come to such aristocratic flowering of your own personal democracy, so that the best within you dominates the rest of you.

And, again, how far our America has come to making our best dominant among us and gladly accepted for leadership!

Chang, In Long Tirade, Puts Blame On Foreigners For Tie-up Of Railroad

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 19.—Reuter has received from Mr. Lenox Simpson, Adviser to the President's Office, the following additional particulars regarding his recent visit to Mukden, which are interesting in view of the approach of negotiations between Russia and Japan, and (supposedly) between China and Russia.

He stated in regard to the sections of the Peking-Mukden railway beyond the Great Wall that there appeared to be some 1,200 cars belonging to all the railways north of the Yangtsze lying at the stations and some 90 locomotives, many of which were burnt out or derelict and urgently in need of repair.

He presented to General Chang Tso-lin a memorandum showing the harm this state of affairs was working on the commercial community and the necessity to take action before the harvest—no freight trains have moved for two months north of the Great Wall, the whole line lying "dead" except for two daily passenger expresses dn each direction, and the receipts of the railway having dropped to one-third of the normal.

BLAMES FOREIGN ACTIONS

General Chang Tso-lin, while agreeing that the situation required remedying said that there were various other points to be considered, notably internal politics and "unneutral foreign actions." He showed great irritation regarding what he described as the unwise step of removing the foreign railway staff north of the Great Wall, which he attributed to "hostile Legation action," and said that although they had now come back he did not want them.

Mr. Simpson was able to convince him that this move had nothing to do with any Legation except indirectly, the so-called unwise action having been initiated by railway officials and approved by others. General Chang Tso-lin asked why, if the matter concerned so closely the interests of the British and Chinese Corporation, no representative of that Corporation had come to see him.

The move made, in his opinion, "only served to show the ignorance of all concerned regarding the true position, which was that Manchuria was self-sufficient and impregnable, having an isolated geographical position in relation to the rest of China more or less resembling Japan's geographical isolation in regard to the rest of the world and which allowed that region to contemplate with equanimity hostile action."

SAYS HE FOLLOWS WU

In retaining the "meagre receipts" of the sections north of the Great Wall he was only, he said, copying what General Wu Pei-fu was doing on every mile of railway he could get hold of. He declared that this system of looting the railways had been initiated by General Wu Pei-fu and apparently approved by foreign interests.

Mr. Simpson said it was not so approved and that it had done more to damage General Wu than anything else.

Finally, after a great deal of discussion, General Chang Tso-lin intimated that he would return all rolling-stock on one condition—that the railway in its entire length be reserved for commercial use military seizure being forbidden.

The Government is considering this proposal.

As regards the general situation in Manchuria Mr. Simpson gives the following as the position:

The railway beyond the Great Wall is absolutely clear of troops, no signs of soldiers being seen anywhere. The nearest divisional headquarters is fifty li from the Koupangtzu junction, where General Li Ching-ling (a native of Chihli) is stationed with the 1st Fengtien Division.

A general reorganisation and weeding-out is going on—for purposes of defence, not offence. General Chang Tso-lin declared. The army reorganisation committee, which the adviser visited, is sitting under the chairmanship of General Chang's son, General Chang Hsueh-liang, a popular young officer with a very good knowledge of English, and one of its most prominent members is Tuchun Sun of Kirin, who is temporarily domiciled in Mukden.

MANY OFFICERS SHOT

Many officers guilty of cowardice or peculation have been summarily shot, and all men without military education have been dismissed. One hundred military students have been recalled from Europe and offered appointments. A certain number of units in Central and Northern Manchuria have been given Russian military instructors.

Aeroplanes have been bought and an aerodrome is to be established, while the Mukden arsenal has been improved. It is noticeable on passenger trains that discipline is well preserved, provost-marshal proclamations in every car warning soldiers of the severest penalties that will follow the slightest infractions.

In regard to the Salt Revenues, General Chang Tso-lin bluntly stated that it would be political insanity on his part to permit remittances to Peking so long as the relationship of Fengtien to Peking remained as entangled as at present, and "so long as General Wu Pei-fu interfered with the whole governmental machine in a manner which had never been attempted before at any time during the life of the Republic."

He constantly repeated that $4,700,000 of salt taxes had been remitted this year, whereas most other provinces including those so-called "loyal," had sent nothing at all. He said that a general Salt conference in Peking was the only way of settling the matter. He would permit Fengtien representatives to attend.

He declared that he was not unmindful of China's foreign obligations, and that "in spite of British hostility to him," he had withdrawn his troops from the Tongshan area after battle positions had been prepared, simply to save the wrecking of the Kailan mines.

ANIMUS AGAINST FOREIGNERS

The animus of the Manchurian provinces against Britishers and Americans was, however, very marked, "owing to their unneutral attitude inside the Great Wall," and only recently he had stopped a general boycott of their goods which would have been ruinous to the British-American Tobacco Company, "which had an annual turnover of twenty million dollars in Fengtien and Kirin alone."

As for the stories of the opposition to him in the Three Eastern Provinces, he said that every district and every organisation in Manchuria had implored him to remain—that he had ample income and land to retire to—but that he was a native son of Manchuria whom his fellow-provincials trusted, which was more than could be said of most native sons. He added that the Three Eastern Provinces had $40,000,000 in hard silver as a cash reserve, which placed them in a very strong position, and that the harvest would be the greatest ever known.

The conversation having turned on the future of government in China, Mr. Simpson suggested that there would be no peace in Peking until the example of the United States were copied and a special neutralised metropolitan area, roughly like the District of Columbia, created. He added that the matter would be easy to work out and incorporate in the permanent constitution, if the provinces supported it.

General Chang Tso-lin agreed. He endorsed the following definition:

"A square demarcated by boundary-stones ten English miles or thirty Chinese li from the walls of the Peking Inner and Outer cities, within which area (roughly 700 square miles English measure or 6,000 square li Chinese measure) no troops of any sort may enter, except when a formal declaration of war against a foreign enemy has been made by the Parliament of China, the policing being entirely confided to the Peking Gendarmerie and police, whose numbers shall be fixed by law, all barracks within this area being demolished and aviation limited to civilian aviation."

PROFESSES IGNORANCE

On the subject of the Chinese Eastern Railway and the reported recent freight agreement with the South Manchuria Railway Company regarding the premium of yen 3.55 per ton (against which one million gold roubles has been paid in advance) for all tonnage handed over to the Japanese company originating from the Harbin and Western districts, he professed ignorance, but promised a strict inquiry into the allegation that it was designed to kill Vladivostok commercially and give Dairen a virtual export monopoly for the whole of Manchuria.

He had heard of the secret purchase of Russian steamers on the Sungari by the South Manchuria Railway as another move in the same direction. He had also heard of the proposed creation of a Japanese mortgage bank by the chairman of the South Manchuria Railway, which would have a capital of fifty million yen and authorised debenture issues up to 500,000,000 yen, the institution being designed to absorb the Manchurian business of the Yokohama Specie Bank, the Bank of Chosen and the Oriental Development Company.

He admitted that all these matters demanded the most careful treatment in the forthcoming negotiations. He declared categorically that negotiations with Russia would be binding on Manchuria only if participated in by representatives from the Three Eastern Provinces, as the common frontier necessitated that the Manchurian viewpoint be specially considered and the conclusions reached be so framed as to have meaning and reality to those in daily touch with Russian life and Russian interests.

Gold Is Mined Near Washington

Mining Gold Near Washington

THE billions in the U. S. Mint and Treasury in Washington, D. C., do not constitute the only gold near the nation's capital. The first hit of gold near Washington has been found at Bull Neck Run, just across the Potomac, in Virginia, and U. S. Senator William H. King, of Utah, is pictured "shooting the guns" at the placer diggings.
